

YOUNG TURKS UNDER BAN OF THE IRWIN MACHINE

They Adopt Rather Commonplace Resolutions Pointing With Pride and Viewing With Alarm and Are Driven to The Freeman Advertising Columns for Publicity.

The Democratic Club of Ulster county, better known as the Young Turks, held a meeting the other day and adopted resolutions endorsing the Democratic ticket, which resolutions will be found in a paid advertisement in another column of tonight's Freeman. Back of that lies a story of how the Young Turks in an effort to have their resolutions made public through the newspapers were turned down by both official organs of the Democratic party on the ground that "the resolutions had not come through the regular channel" and had not been approved by Mr. Irwin.

Everyone remembers that the Young Turks were organized some years ago when the younger element of the Democratic party became disgusted at the way the party was being handled in Ulster county, and so formed the organization. The Young Turks were insurgents in the party ranks—and they were some "insurgers," too. For some time they have been dormant and it was thought, and in some quarters hoped, that the organization was but a memory of the past. It will be seen, however, that the Young Turks were not dead but merely sleeping and despite the quietness of the organization's movements the past few years the Young Turks are still "insurgent."

As the resolutions adopted at the meeting held by the Young Turks were heartily in favor of the Democratic ticket it was thought by the committee to whom they were instructed to give the waiting public through the medium of the official newspapers of the party that the same official organs would welcome them with open arms and spread the resolutions across the front pages with screaming headlines. Strange to relate although the editor of one of the official organs was a signer of the resolutions, it is said that when he was visited in his office and reverently handed the resolutions with a request to have them displayed in a prominent place he refused to publish them, for the reasons stated above.

When their official organ refused to officiate the resolutions committee while somewhat daunted and downcast did not give up all hope but fled away to the other "official" organ where they presented the set of resolutions with hope glowing again, but again a refusal met the committee's request to publish, on the grounds that it is said—the resolutions had not come "through the regular channel."

Today a delegation of the Young Turks visited The Freeman office with the long suffering set of resolutions, determined that they should be spread before the anxious gaze of the voters of the city, and by paying down the usual space rates the resolutions at last have seen the light of the newspaper day.

A reading of the names of the signers to the resolutions reads like a list of those present at a family reunion of the Young Turks and Old Guard.

Thus again is proved that if the Democrat leaders really want to have the voters know what is being done and what is being planned to be done that they have to come to The Freeman.

What's the use of having an official organ? If it won't print what we are doing? Is the way one of the Young Turks puts it.

A committee of Young Turks will present a copy of the resolutions to Judge Seabury this afternoon, probably by handing him a marked copy of The Freeman.

ARSON CHARGE IN TWO CIVIL ACTIONS

Suits Against Carman Estate to Recover for Damage Caused by Burning of Humiston Property at Kerhonkson.

The jury in the case of Anna G. Yager of Saugerties against Roscoe Murphy, an action to recover $5,000 for alleged slander on the part of the defendant, brought in a sealed verdict at the opening of court this morning in the sum of $100 for the plaintiff.

The case of the Continental Insurance Company against M. C. Wood, as administrator, an action for damages to personal property, and No. 37, Howard B. Humiston against Myron C. Wood, a similar action, were tried together as the facts in both cases are similar and the witness the same.

The jury will bring in two separate verdicts as the cases were not combined in one action.

The actions are brought to recover for damages alleged to have been sustained when the buildings of Howard B. Humiston at Kerhonkson were destroyed by fire during the year 1909. Richard Doughty appeared for the insurance company. John R. De Vany with Corporation Counsel William D. Brunner of counsel represents Mr. Wood in both actions, while Judge John G. Van Etten with The Cook appear for Mr. Humiston.

The case was tried before a jury some time ago and the jury disagreed.

The facts as presented by the two sides to the jury form an interesting case and the trial will probably consume the greater part of Wednesday. There are a large number of witnesses numbering half a hundred or more.

Mr. Humiston for a time worked for Nathaniel Carman, now deceased, who had conducted the undertaking business in Kerhonkson for half a century but after being engaged by Mr. Carman for a period of time, Mr. Humiston decided to engage in business in Kerhonkson in his own behalf.

To this Mr. Carman objected on the grounds that he had been in the business for such a long time that he should not be molested. However, Mr. Humiston did engage in business in 1908 and thereby gained the dislike of Mr. Carman. By installing up-to-date methods Mr. Humiston's business prospered and according to the testimony introduced Mr. Carman stated that he would get even with Mr. Humiston for conflicting with his established business.

Some time after embarking into business the buildings of Mr. Humiston burned together with the horses, carriages and other equipment. Witnesses sworn in behalf of the plaintiff stated that Mr. Carman had been about the buildings and shortly before the fire was seen to come from the premises. The barn had been sprinkled with gasoline and oil and excelsior distributed about the premises in order to hasten the destruction by the flames.

After the fire Mr. Humiston rebuilt his buildings and later while away to a funeral Mr. Carman was seen about the barns and shortly after Mr. Humiston had put the team in the stables they became sick, and an investigation showed that they had been poisoned. This was some two years after the fire. A second attempt was made to burn the building in 1912 and at this time Mr. Carman was again suspected of being the cause of the fire. Mr. Carman who was at that time about 80 years old was seen to come down the village street carrying a light and an armful of combustible material and go toward the Humiston property. On account of his advanced age Mr. Carman was thought to be mentally weak and in fact he was later committed to Middletown. On the second instance when the barns were fired Mr. Carman was discovered at the premises and upon the appearance of Mr. Humiston he produced a gun, which is one of the exhibits in the case, and threatened Mr. Humiston.

The defense is a denial that Mr. Carman fired the barns on the first occasion and witnesses were produced to testify that on the night of the first fire Mr. Carman was in bed with his wife during the evening and therefore could not have set fire to the buildings.

The damages sued for in the two claims amount to $7,500.

Court took a recess at 12:30 and the case was again taken up in the afternoon. The case will not go to the jury before Wednesday afternoon.

FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS

EQUINE EUGENICS INTEREST STATE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 17.—Blanks have been sent out for the enrollment of stallions in the veterinary bureau of the department of agriculture. Arrangements have been made by Commissioner Charles S. Wilson for carrying out the act of the legislature providing for this enrollment. Commissioner Wilson stated that the object of the enrollment is the improvement of horses in New York state. The new law provides for the examination of all stallions, to be offered for service, by a veterinarian who must certify to the commissioner of agriculture the animals' soundness and freedom from infectious incurable diseases.

It is made the duty of the commissioner to cause to be verified and enrolled the breeding and pedigree of the condition of the stallions. It is required that the owners shall obtain a certificate of the condition of soundness of their stallions, signed by a veterinarian who is approved by the department of agriculture. The veterinarian must take an oath before a notary attesting the certificate. All enrollment certificates expire on January 1 of each year following the date of issuance and must be renewed before April 1 following, unless the enrollment is made after August 1 when they remain in force to December 31 of the succeeding year. In case of change of ownership a transfer certificate must be obtained. The owner of a stallion must post certificate of enrollment in a conspicuous place in his stable. Circulars advertising stallions must have a copy of the certificate issued by the department of agriculture. The charge for enrollment is three dollars, for renewal one dollar and transfer fifty cents.

After January 1, 1917, no stallion, if provided, shall be allowed for service which is not enrolled and certified by the department. The law prohibits the collection of fees for the service of unenrolled stallions.

Indiana Insanity Increase.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 17.—Delegates to a conference on mental defectives today were confronted with the statement of Dr. J. N. Hurty, state health commissioner, that insanity is on the increase in Indiana.

Living under a constant nervous tension and the use of alcohol were named as the two chief causes of insanity. The conference listened to speeches by many prominent speakers. Information given at the conference will be used by a commission appointed by Governor Ralston to prepare legislation for submission to the next legislature.

Britain Needs Rubber.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Shortage of rubber for war purposes as well as for general use has resulted today in a modification of Great Britain's import restrictions, according to a cablegram from Consul-General Skinner at London to the state department. All goods now on the prohibited list may be imported if made wholly or mainly of rubber.

Another Huge War Loan.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 17.—It was reported in the financial district today that Great Britain is to issue another war loan of $250,000,000 in this country. It will be handled by J. P. Morgan & Co. This will bring the total amount borrowed here by England, France and Russia since the war began to more than $1,000,000,000.

WAR AT A GLANCE

Germany is engaged in the gigantic task of attempting two counter-offensives simultaneously in separate theatres of war.

In France the Germans are struggling desperately to check the encircling movement of the Allies at Bapaume. The French war office today made particular mention of the fact that the Germans are launching by the Germans south of Bapaume where fighting was in progress all night. Despite the German attack the French gained more ground.

At the southern end of the east front the Austro-German armies have begun a drive against the Russo-Rumanian forces. Its purpose evidently is to get between the Russian and Rumanian armies.

The German Allies have lost ground in Rumania. It is reported from Petrograd that von Mackensen's army has been rolled back forty miles, but the report lacks official confirmation.

There is no let-up in the struggle on the Macedonian front. The Bulgarians have delivered powerful assaults against the Serbians in the past 24 hours. The attackers lost heavily and gained nothing.

CELEBRATION OF COLUMBUS DAY

The postponed annual Columbus Day celebration by Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, which was made necessary by the Men's Mission at St. Joseph's Church last week, took place in the Knights of Columbus Home on Broadway Monday night, when the Hon. Winter Russell delivered an eloquent address on Columbus. There was a large attendance of members.

Mr. Russell, who is an orator of wide reputation, spoke on Columbus' life and services. His early life was outlined and the conditions existing in Europe were described. His labors and his tribulations were referred to by the speaker, who described the results to science, art, industry and literature during the centuries that have followed.

E. Frank Flanagan, grand knight of Kingston Council, introduced the speaker and also the artists who afterward furnished musical entertainment. The program opened with a selection by the Knights of Columbus orchestra under the directorship of J. Schick, and was followed by selections by Miss Bessie Cusack, the well known soprano, who rendered "When You're Away" and "Jean." After Mr. Russell's address, John E. McCarthy sang "In the Garden of the Gods" and "Somewhere a Voice is Calling." Mrs. John E. McCarthy accompanying the singer.

After the entertainment refreshments were served, and dancing followed until a late hour.

Dr. Baranowitch to Preach.

Dr. T. H. Baranowitch, pastor of James' Church in this city, is to preach the sermon at the one hundredth anniversary of the building of the Methodist Church in Lakeville, Conn. The centennial opens on Wednesday of this week. This is the church in which Dr. Baranowitch preached his first sermon in America. Rev. George H. Shahan is now the pastor.

FINE STATE HOME FOR DEFECTIVES

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 17.—New York State is developing one of the most modern and scientific institutions for the care of the feeble-minded in the United States if not in the world, through the construction of many additional buildings in connection with the Lockport village hospital at Thiels, Rockland county.

When the state has constructed the additional buildings, there will be ninety-six in all, with sixty-nine major buildings. Work has been going on for some time, yet it will take several years before the last of the structures will have been completed.

In the general scheme to create a perfect institution to deal with the mentally deficient, experts from all over the country in sanitation, hygiene, architecture and psychology are identified. Upon the ideas expressed by these noted scientists, the plans of the buildings now in course of erection were drawn, with the result when the last stone has been placed in the fire-proof houses and dormitories, a model institution will begin modern treatment of a malady which is not necessarily fatal or permanent.

Under the plans which are being followed, male, female, adult male and adult female inmates of Letchworth Village are to be segregated. Each class will have its medium of recreation and employment. There will be lakes, playgrounds, farm lands to till, cattle and swine to care for and industries to engage the mind with the hands.

The system of sanitation and water supply has already been installed and the house of the superintendent has been erected, yet much remains to be done. Letchworth Village is the institution to which are sent the great majority of patients coming from Greater New York and it has long since outlived its capacity. While at the present time there are confined about 400 patients, it is estimated that the institution will easily accommodate 3,000 when all of its doors are thrown open.

The records of the cures obtained at Letchworth Village is about ten per cent of the inmates there committed. It is hoped that under the new order of things, with more improvements and a wider field to exploit the new ideas relative to the care and treatment of the mentally defective, a larger percentage of cures will be obtained.

According to the ideas now followed by medical men, agriculture and manual training play a considerable part in the restoration of the mentally afflicted to normal conditions. With the belief in view there will be ample space devoted to these two pursuits at the enlarged Letchworth Village.

The plans for the additional buildings for the institution under discussion were drawn under more than one administration and many architects submitted ideas. The composite proposition is now in the hands of State Architect Louis F. Pilcher who is superintending the erection of the buildings which are to form the group of ninety-six and to create the greatest and most complete institution of its character extant.

Builders of Constitution that Voters Rejected Protest Against Spending $2,500,000 for Another Attempt in 1917—Citizens Urged to Vote "No!"

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, Oct. 17.—Declaring that an expenditure of $2,500,000 for another constitutional convention in 1918 would be unwise, abortive and unjust to the taxpayers of this state, letters from more than a quarter of all the delegates to the convention in 1915 have already been received in this city today, according to officers of the Home Rule Tax Association.

Prominent in protesting against an affirmative vote on "Question No. 1—Shall there be a convention to revise the constitution and amend the same?" are George W. Wickersham, Louis Marshall, Alfred E. Smith and Delancey Noyl of New York, George Clinton and Charles B. Sears of Erie, Rush Rees and Homer E. Dick of Monroe, Edgar T. Brackett of Saratoga, A. T. Clearwater of Ulster, Harvey D. Hinman of Broome, C. H. Betts of Wayne, Edward N. Smith of Jefferson and Meier Steinbrink of Kings. Similar expressions of opinion against authorizing another constitutional convention by this special ballot on election day have also been received from M. W. Stryker, retiring president of Hamilton College, Frank N. Godfrey, former master of the state grange, ex-Judge Irving G. Vann of Onondaga, J. W. Wadsworth of Livingston and J. Sloat Fassett of Chemung.

The strikers have split into two factions—those who are willing to aid in bringing about a peaceful settlement and those who are resolved to force the company to meet their terms. The first battle today occurred when more than 100 strikers made a drive for the New Jersey Central viaduct. Upon gaining the top they let loose a fusillade of revolver shots against half a dozen special policemen on guard. One bullet went through Special Policeman Lynch's hat. The officers returned the fire, but none was hit. Three arrests were made. A little later more than a score of strikers made an attack on Special Policemen Brown and Traites, near the 26th street railroad tracks. They escaped injury. This was the second attack upon them within twelve hours. The two officers are credited with fourteen arrests. Bayonne officials today took a pessimistic view regarding the possibilities for an early restoration of order. Conferences looking toward a settlement of the strike began at 8 o'clock this morning when the special committee of strikers met George B. Hennessy, general superintendent of the Standard Oil Company plant here. Statements given out by both sides just before the conference began were pessimistic. Mr. Hennessy said it would be impossible for the company to grant the wage scale demanded by the strikers, nor could the demand for the reinstatement of convicted rioters be met. William Melcher, chairman of the strikers' committee, stated the employees would not "cede an inch."

TO ERADICATE BEDBUGS.

Uncle Sam's Scientists Have Written a Pamphlet Telling How.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—Those who are troubled by bedbugs will find practical information as to how to deal effectively with these pests in Farmers' Bulletin 754, "Bedbugs," recently published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In this bulletin C. L. Marlatt of the Bureau of Entomology, makes clear the habits of these insects which have a bearing on their eradication, and suggests a number of simple household measures, as well as more radical methods, of getting rid of them. The author calls attention especially to the fact that these insects will migrate from an unoccupied to an inhabited house and points out that the fact that they primarily hide in the daytime makes it necessary to apply the insecticides in cracks in walls and floors and crevices under wall paper, where the insects ordinarily are concealed and lay their eggs. Information as to the ability of bedbugs to withstand cold and to go without food for long periods should be especially useful to those intending to move into houses long unoccupied. Of the simpler remedies the entomologist says that benzine, kerosene or other lighter petroleum oils introduced into crevices by means of a brush or syringe are perhaps the most efficient. The bulletin also gives directions for fumigation with sulphur or other chemicals, which will be of general infestation. Those who have been bitten will find applications of peroxide of hydrogen useful in allaying irritation. Tincture of iodine, in its ordinary or double strength, is also a good counter-irritant for use in case of fleas, mosquitoes, bedbugs or other insect bites. Iodine, however, should be used with caution on the tender skin of small children and on those who are affected with or disposed to eczematous disorders.

The bulletin will be supplied free by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as long as the supply lasts.

RENEWED RIOTING IN BAYONNE STRIKE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bayonne, N. J., Oct. 17.—After a night of unrest and firing by snipers, rioting growing out of the Standard Oil strike was renewed early today. Two pitched battles were fought between strikers and policemen and another attempt was made to set fire to the Tidewater plant.

A crisis in the strike is looked for today when representatives of the rule employees are to call upon Standard Oil officials at the company's New York offices. The committee has no authority to call off the strike but will report back to the strikers for ratification of any agreements.

The strikers have split into two factions—those who are willing to aid in bringing about a peaceful settlement and those who are resolved to force the company to meet their terms.

POTASH SCARCITY ALARMS FARMERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 17.—While the European war is helping to send prices for farm products skyward, it is also robbing the American soil of its fertility. One of the three elements that go to form nourishment for the soil—nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash—that has gone into the manufacture of munitions in great quantities is the phosphoric acid. The result has been to make this commercial fertilizer too expensive for general use.

This was one of the statements confronting 1,000 delegates to the Farmers' National Congress, which opened its annual meeting here today. C. S. Atwater, a government expert, warned farmers not to sacrifice permanent prosperity for wartime profits.

The discussions of the delegates to the congress covered a wide range of subjects. Delegates from western states presented a complex nationwide market system, in which a closer combination of agriculturists was urged, to take from the middleman much of his profits.

New laws that will regulate tenantry were advocated. Under the present lack of laws on this subject, speakers declared, the lease between landlord and tenant is looked upon as simply a joint agreement to rob the land and divide the spoils. Proper land laws must be enacted to protect the fertility of the soil, it was declared.

The perennial question, "Why do Boys Leave the Farm?" was mooted to make farm life more attractive the promotion of social life through community centers with good schools as the focal point of all activities was urged.

The growth of consolidated schools replacing the old "little red brick school house," was declared to be one of the greatest boons to farm life in a source of years. That the "liver" can help overcome deficiencies in the rural school system by making possible close supervision by a competent educator, was one of the features of the discussion of rural education.

Among the speakers before the conference are Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia; Prof. H. S. Graves, chief of the United States Forestry Service; Hal B. Fullerton, market manager for the Long Island railroad; Clifford Finch, John Skelton Williams, compiler of the currency, and Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education.

ROSENDALE

Rosendale, Oct. 16.—The hot supper that was served in the Reformed parsonage on Tuesday evening was well attended. About $25 was the amount collected. Much credit is due the ladies of the church who did so much to make it a success.

The Rev. J. R. Simmons spent a few days the past week with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Meltzer in Clifton, New Jersey.

Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Robinson of Connecticut motored to this village the past week and called on old friends.

Mrs. Clarence Moore and the Misses Grace and Viola are spending a week with friends in Hudson. Mrs. Maria Kuhn of Poughkeepsie is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Philip Driscoll.

Mrs. Archie McLaughlin and Mrs. Charles TenHagen visited Kingston on Friday last.

Delegates from both the Reformed and Baptist Church attended the Sunday school convention in the James Church, Kingston, on Monday and Tuesday.

The Rev. Theodore A. Beekman of Krainville occupied the pulpit of the Reformed Church on Sunday evening. He was entertained at the home of Ruiter Ten Hagen.

Mr. and Mrs. John Olry and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ten Hagen spent Sunday with friends at Granite.

Gettli & Kesselring, our village bakers, have gone out of business. Our people of the village are very sorry as they were fine bakers and were well liked by everyone in our community.

The Misses Mildred and Agnes Christiana returned from a visit with relatives in the city on Saturday last.

Charles Minton spent a few days in New York city last week. Russell Freer and wife were week end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Minard at New Paltz.

HURRIED EATING.

Hasty eating is not by any means an accomplishment that is acquired alone by the busy business man, for it is nearly as common among women.

This violation of nature's laws, sooner or later will bring the penalty of indigestion and disordered liver.

Food hurried along in the body is either wasted, fulfilling no part of its natural functions in nutrition or it is retained in the intestine in this undigested state, causing fermentation and kindred ills that lead to serious trouble.

It is easy to see that the active outdoor worker may, with less danger, bolt his food, for he sits down for his quiet noon hour and his digestion is in perfect working order owing to active exercise. The indoor worker rushes to the lunch counter, often standing while he bolts a piece of pie and washes it down with a glass of milk or a cupful of coffee. Then goes back to an office where he sits in a stooping position, which retards digestion.

It would be far wiser for the indoor worker to fast at noon or take but a glassful of buttermilk or milk than to hurry into the stomach a mixture of ill blended foods.

The normal secretions of the mouth are alkaline and as starch is digested in such a medium it is necessary that all starchy foods be properly insalivated. If a piece of bread and butter is well divided in the mouth and a spoonful of acid fruit is added to it the acid retards the action of the alkaline. These foods should be eaten alone; fruit, then starches. Fatty foods are valuable, but mix them with starch in the form of pie and trouble begins if you have any digestive weakness. The fat surrounds the starch grains, preventing the action of the mouth and intestinal juices and more trouble ensues.

The foods best suited to the indoor worker are the easily digested foods, and even milk should be sipped, not swallowed as one does water. Milk and eggs, and dishes made from them are best suited to the indoor worker.

ROUNDOUT CHURCH LAID FOUNDATION

Poughkeepsie Lutherans at Anniversary Banquet Lay Stress on Encouragement of Sixty Years Ago—The Rev. Mr. Schmidtkonz a Speaker.

Loyalty to the American flag was a predominant sentiment at the banquet held in the Pompeian room of the Morgan House, Poughkeepsie, Monday evening by the members of the German Lutheran Church of that city as a conclusion to the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the building of the church and of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Ladies Aid Society. Over 450 present and former members of the congregation were in attendance and American flags and cut flowers were used in the decorations.

Among the speakers was the Rev. A. Schmidtkonz, pastor of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church, this city, who is also president of the Albany Conference. William Wetzel, an introducing the Kingston speaker went into history slightly, remarking that in Mr. Schmidtkonz the parishioners were listening to a man from the parish in Roundout, the minister of whom sixty years ago sent an organizer to Poughkeepsie who laid the foundation for the present congregation.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. Sarah Terwilliger announces the engagement of her daughter, Alice E., to Alexander Hempstead of Ravena, N. Y. The wedding will take place in the near future.

Sherman-Elmendorf.

William Sherman of New York city and Mrs. Sarah A. Elmendorf of No. 114 Newkirk avenue, were quietly married on Monday by the Rev. P. C. Weyant of the Trinity M. E. Church. The witnesses were Mrs. P. C. Weyant and Mrs. J. S. Robinson.

White-Collins.

Miss Lillian Collins, daughter of John Collins, of South Wall street, and Edgar H. White, of 390 East avenue, Bridgeport, Conn., were united in marriage on Sunday afternoon, October 15, at the North Baptist Church by the Rev. Leo B. Thomas, pastor of the church. The bridesmaid was Mrs. Ellen E. Walker, sister of the groom and the best man was George W. Walker. The young people have a host of friends in this city. They will reside on East avenue, Bridgeport, Conn.

Soiskanishade Club.

Miss Cloonan was the hostess at this week's meeting of the Soiskanishade Club. Considerable routine business was transacted, including the making of final arrangements for entertaining the Federation of Women's Club on Saturday afternoon of this week at the high school. Miss Hardin of Albany, a dramatic reader of exceptional ability, will entertain the federation and public, this portion of the afternoon's program beginning at 2:30 o'clock. All members of the Federation were asked to be present promptly at 2 o'clock for the business session. The principal paper for the day given by Mrs. H. P. Van Wagoner, whose subject was "Colonial Wars." She gave a graphic account of the various wars of the earliest settlements previous to the peace of Paris in 1763, and showed how these early struggles developed a love of liberty united the colonies in the bonds of friendship and patriotism. They also trained the soldiers for the great struggle which later brought about our independence. A short paper was given by Mrs. G. F. Rice on the topic "Prehistoric Relics." This paper contained a concise but interesting account of the ruins, earth works, pottery and carvings of the ancient peoples of this land. Both papers were full of information and at the same time entertaining. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Lasher at her home, No. 79 Lucas avenue.

Another Distinguished Guest.

Among the distinguished guests at the chapter day meeting of Witwick Chapter D. A. R. at the chapter house on Monday afternoon, was the Marquise Cecile de Wentworth of New York, now famed on two continents as an artist, especially a portrait artist. The marquise who makes her summer home in the Big Indian valley, was born in New York and is a pupil of Alexander Cabanel and Edouard Detaille. She has received medals at the Paris Salon, Lyons, Turin. Also she received the first gold medal at Tours. At the Exposition Universelle she received a medal on the portrait of Leo XIII. Decorated by the French Government "Officier de l'Academie Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur" in 1901. Decorated by Leo XIII, Grand Commander of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre at Rome. Decorated by Mohammed En-Nacer Pacha-Bey, Officier Ordre du Nichan Iftikar. Among the pictures painted by Marquise Wentworth and exhibited at the Paris Salon, which are best known in this country are the celebrated portrait of Leo XIII in the Vatican Museum, Rome; portrait of Queen Alexandra, London; portrait of Pius X. in the Paulist House, New York; portrait of President Roosevelt in Rome, one in Chicago; portrait of the Hon. Charles Joseph Bonaparte, Department of Justice, Washington, D. C.; portrait of President Taft, Washington, D. C. The marquise, who was registered at the Sturgesville, attended the D. A. R. meeting as the guest of Mrs. William Lawton of Crown street.

Adams-Candell.

The home of Secretary and Mrs. J. E. Candell on Orchard street was the scene this afternoon of a charming October wedding, when at three o'clock Miss Marion Wright Candell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Can-field, became the bride of Lester Vernon Adams of Warren, Mass. Masses of brilliant autumnal foliage handsomely decorated the rooms and formed a leafy bower in the spacious living room, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. O. Van Keuren, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, Schenectady. Both bride and groom are active members of this church. The bride who was lovely in her bridal robe of white embroidered net over white satin, and who carried bride roses and lilies of the valley, was given away by her father. Appropriate wedding music was played by Muller's Orchestra which entertained the guests throughout the afternoon. Relatives and immediate friends were the guests, and during the afternoon a fine collation was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Adams left for their wedding journey. On their return they will make their home in Schenectady where the groom who is a graduate of Cornell University is a chemist in the research laboratory, working with Dr. Moore. The bride who is a graduate of the Schenectady High School and Training School for Teachers, has been for the past few years a highly esteemed member of the faculty of the Washington Irving School of the same city. Among the out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Adams of Warren, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wright and Mrs. Edgar D. Wright of Livingston, N. Y.

Full Federation Meeting Saturday.

There will be a meeting of the full Federation of Women's Clubs held on the coming Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the high school auditorium. The Soiskanishade Club will entertain the Federation, having secured Miss Ruth A. Hardin of Albany an exceptionally fine reader. This portion of the program will begin at 2:30 o'clock and will be open to the public. The Soiskanishade Club and the Federation cordially invite the women of Kingston, not already affiliated with the Federation to be present at this meeting.

Monday Afternoon Sewing Club Plans Dance.

The first fall meeting of the Monday Afternoon Sewing Club will be held next Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Miss Sarah Horton on Albany avenue, when plans will be formulated for a Thanksgiving Dance to be given by the club.

Charity Dance Committee Meeting.

There will be an important meeting of the Annual Charity Dance Committee of the Daughters of Isabella held on Friday evening of this week at the home of the chairman of the committee, Miss Margaret Kennedy on Washington avenue. The date and place of this annual dance will be announced following the meeting.

An invitation has been received by the Daughters of Isabella, from the Court Columbia Chapter at Hudson, to attend initiatory ceremonies of that chapter to be held on Sunday, October 22nd, at 2 p. m. at Columbus Hall, Hudson.

Monday Club Meeting.

The first autumnal meeting of the Monday Club will be held on Wednesday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles De La Vergne. This meeting was postponed until Wednesday out of compliment to the D. A. R. meeting on Monday and the Garden Club meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

Baseball and the Marines.

Americans are lately the best bomb and grenade throwers in the world and are capable of waging wonderful trench warfare in case of hostilities says United States marine corps officers. "The average American youth early learns to throw a baseball with speed and accuracy, and it is because of that we, as a nation, are especially fitted to wage the modern war of the trenches. Baseball is encouraged at all our stations, and the skill displayed by marines—even untrained recruits—in the bomb and grenade throwing practice is really remarkable," said a marine corps officer.

Ancient Preservation of the Dead.

Herodotus gives a good description of the manner in which the early Ethiopians preserved their dead. Having thoroughly dried the corpse, they plastered it over with a paste made of gypsum and then painted the face and exposed parts so as to make them look as natural as possible. Dead bodies served in this manner remained intact for hundreds of years.—London Globe.

Aptly Described.

"I have been courting her for two years," said the disconsolate one, "and I am certain that she will refuse me when I propose."

"Ah, that is interesting," said the amateur photographer—"a sort of undeveloped negative."—Pittsburgh Press.

Defined.

"Freddie," said the teacher, "can you tell me the meaning of the word desert?"

"Sure I can," replied Freddie. "Desert is the stuff you get a little bit of for eating a whole lot of things you don't like."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

As the Years Go By.

The letterhead of a certain lawyer bears a legend that savors of sound philosophy. It runs, "I am anxious for business, but have passed the experimental age and am now demanding cash for my services."—Case and Comment.

Emotional Acting.

"You acted Juliet as if you were really suffering."

"I was. I played the part in a pair of very tight shoes."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Depends.

"Is boiling a refining process, pa?"

"That depends, my son, whether it is done in four mills or at the table."—Baltimore American.

able dip in front. The trousers are regulation cut. Velours trowsers, gauntlet gloves, ascot tie and Russian calf boots are all correctly worn.

LIBRARY FURNISHINGS.

A Five Piece Set That You Can Make at Home.

An interesting use of cretonne, brocade or any of the many materials which one encounters in the search for library furnishings is shown in a set of five articles, all for the library, and which, when separated, will not give that fixed look of having everything to match.

First of all there is a pillow. It may be square, oblong, round or oval. The material, if cretonne or soft silk, is shirred on cords and caught in the middle under a covered button. A bit of plain material or an appliqued figure from the cretonne or figured linen may be substituted for the middle instead of the button.

Next there is a runner for the library or living room table. This is very plain, with ends braided or showing set on pieces of the plain or figured material, as the case may be.

A cover for the telephone book is another member of the set. It is lined with the contrasting material and well made with either buckram or light pasteboard foundation to give a real support to the paper covered book. A bright cord is substituted for the usual cord on the telephone book and passed through eyelets in the cover.

With the telephone goes a screen of cardboard covered with the selected material and lined with the contrasting one. The screen is threefold, and the middle portion is higher than the side wings.

A portfolio for the desk uses more of the material. It, too, can be made from a lightweight cardboard and is lined with contrasting material. On one flap a corner of the outer covering holds a blotter of the lining color in place. On the other flap is a pocket for note paper, postals, telegraph blanks, stamps, etc.

With the exception of the pillow this set might be used in the hall to introduce a note of bright color, for it is the style now to provide your hall with a table desk and telephone stand.

Uses For Glycerin.

Tea stains on linen should be rubbed with glycerin before the article is laundered to prevent the yellow discoloration.

Glycerin should be added to hot lemonade in place of sugar for a cold. It makes the remedy more efficacious. When black kid gloves become shabby rub them with equal parts of glycerin and black ink. This is a good dressing for black leather of any sort. Wet shoes rubbed with this are not so hard when dried as if allowed to dry first. Fill shoes with paper to absorb some of the dampness and to help them keep their shape.

Use a few drops of glycerin and a small lump of borax to a quart of water when wiping off paint or oilcloth if you wish to have the polish of new articles.

A New Brim Line.

There is a strong tendency toward the front flare in the new transparent and felt hats. While this brim line is not becoming to many faces it can be so arranged that the flare comes at one side or tip tilted. A bit of soft French braid or a twist of silk helps to remove the severity.

Femininity.

The woman whom everybody calls great carries the woman whom everybody calls the dearest little woman in the world.—Life.

Mercy turns her back to the unmerciful.—Quaker.

What Ambition Can Do

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Q. Hope Jones advanced to the desk on the platform and said:

"My dear friends, I reached this town of Cucumber Hill early in the day and have had several hours to look over the landscape and converse with your most eminent citizens. You have a site here to be proud of, and your sawmill is equipped with one of the finest steam whistles I ever heard. Your hogs look fat and contented as they walk up and down the avenues. Such cows as I have encountered are of a kindly disposition, and the alarms of war seem not to have disturbed you.

"There are only seven persons present at my lecture, but probably the measles and the whooping cough kept the others in the house. I have delivered lectures where the audience numbered only one person, but I spoke with the emphasis, philosophy and logic that I use where the audience numbers a thousand. I shall do so to night. You shall have the worth of your money and perhaps double the value. I am going to tell you what ambition can do.

"Take the case of Socrates. He has been dead some time, but he did not kick about dying when his time had come and history has left us a good record of his ambitious doings. He began life as a corner grocer, and in those days every grocer had to give sixteen ounces to the pound.

"Seeing after a year or two that there was no show in the grocery business for an honest man, Old Socrates decided on a change. He closed up his shop and went to school to learn to be a statesman and an orator. Such was his ambition to get there that in two weeks he knew more than the schoolmaster. It wasn't two months after the change occurred that he made a fourth of July speech that knocked all the older orators galley west. He used his big words in just the right places and he slung his grammar around with the utmost liberality. From thence on he began to elbow his way upward. Those who had reached the top rung of the ladder tried their best to keep him down, but failed in their designs. The time came when Socrates almost had the influence of a king.

"Having got all the honors that could be showered upon one man and having accumulated about a billion dollars, he peacefully passed away.

"But, my friends, we need not go back so far to cite our cases. Take that of Napoleon. He was born of humble parents. He lived in a garret. Hot biscuit and clover honey were not for him. Nothing but ambition saved him from becoming a tin peddler or a Barker for a summer show. He had ambition, and he won. He chopped cord wood for 20 cents a day until he had saved money enough to take him through a military school. When through with this school he took command of the army of France, and the way he did him the rest of Europe was a caution. For forty years or more he kept things going. Between his wars there was hardly time for him to go fishing. He licked the enemy in most of his battles, and when he didn't lick 'em they could not catch up to lick him.

"Ambition made Napoleon the greatest general of the world, and the greatest general finally became an emperor and made the whole world afraid of him. In truth he became a little too ambitious. He started out to give Europe a last dressing down, and at the battle of Waterloo he got the dressing down himself. De ambitious, but don't expect to hold four acres in every hand.

"And there was John Hancock, first to sign the Declaration of Independence. What did he amount to before he signed? Nobody took off his hat to him. His name was never put up for an office. He could not have gone to the alderman of his ward and got a sidewalk repaired. It was said of him that he was a very quiet man, but he did not know a tater bug from a beetle.

"All of a sudden, however, Mr. Hancock felt ambition stirring in his breast. He got up and took his hat off its peg and said to his wife:

"Hannah, I think I will go over to the old statehouse and sign the Declaration of Independence. Something tells me I ought to do it."

"And she replied:

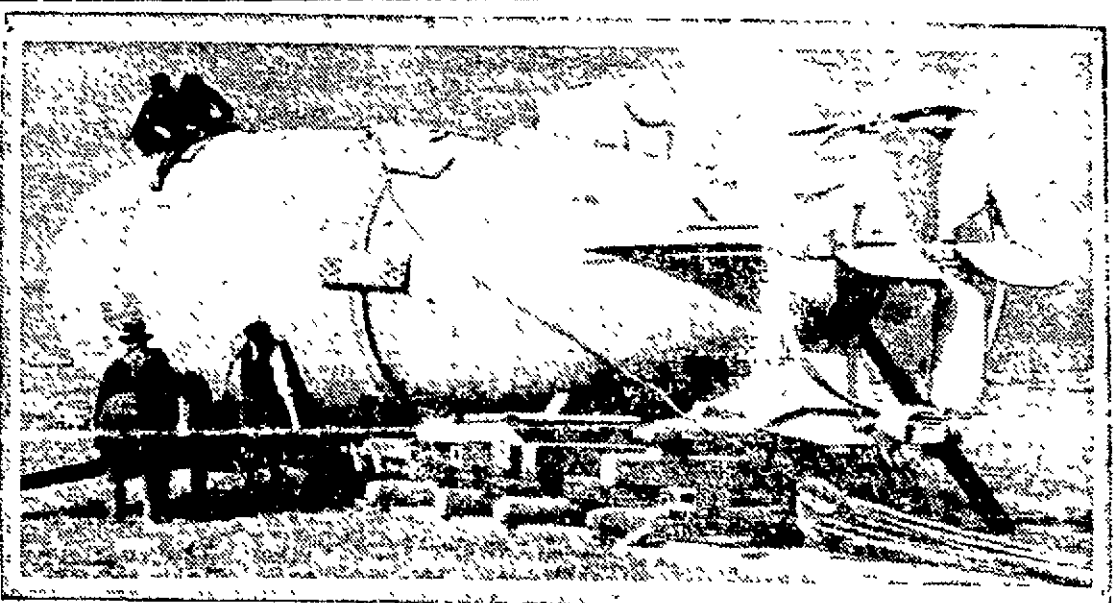

"Yes, John, you had better go over and write your name as large as you can. It will bluff the British if it doesn't do anything else."

"And who was John Hancock half an hour after he had signed? Why, the men of Washington were whooping for him and carrying him about on their shoulders, and you take my word for it, next day he could have had anything in the gift of the town. He shot right up like a green bay tree, and to know John Hancock was something that every man in the land could be proud of. He died respected and loved by all.

"My friends, there is nothing to compare with ambition. It beats the skyscraper elevator in hoisting a man up. The rope never breaks and lets the cage fall. If the ambitious boy or man is driving ozen today he may be riding in his own gilded railroad car five years from now. If you are not an ambitious man don't delay in making a start. If you have not the feeling it comes to you, and when it comes give it a warm welcome and prepare to be hoisted into greatness."

Unhappy Success.

A prudent man has his moments of depression when it seems as if his wife's running account at the dry goods store must be trying for the sprouting record and what is worse, succeeding.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

"DADDY" OF ALL SUBMARINES TO BE PRESERVED AS A RELIC.

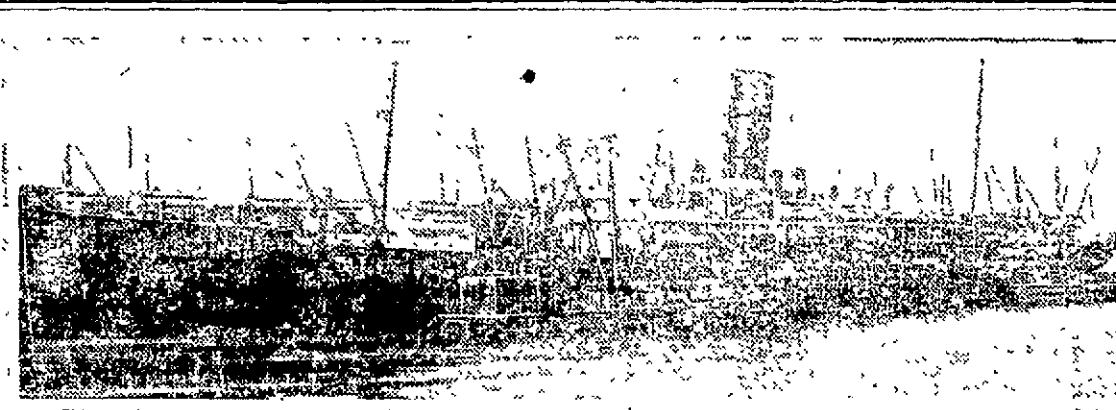

Here is the original submarine, named the Holland 9, after its inventor, John P. Holland, photographed just before being cut into sections to be shipped from Philadelphia to New York, where it will be exhibited for a year at the Bronx International Exposition. After that time it will be permanently on exhibition at the Museum of Peaceful Arts in New York.

Two New York men purchased the boat, which was the first successful under-water craft, and the ninth submarine built by Mr. Holland. The first eight were not successful.

She was built at the Crescent yard in Elizabeth, N. J. She is 53 feet, 10 inches long, diameter 10 feet 3 inches, and has a submerged displacement of 75 tons. She was propelled on the surface by a gasoline engine of 50 horse power, and when submerged, by a 50 horse power electric motor. On the surface she could make six knots under gasoline engine, and about eight knots under the motor. Submerged she could make about five and a half knots under the motor. Her armament consisted of one bow torpedo tube, one bow pneumatic projection gun, and three short Whitehead torpedoes.

After she was launched in 1898, she was towed to Perth Amboy and it was from there she sailed on her first dive, and proved to the public that she was a reality, a terrible weapon of war, and not the mere scuseless conception of a dreamer.

She was later purchased and commissioned by the federal government.

S.S. HELLOG OLAV, DANISH STEAMER REPORTED "CHASED BY U-53."

The Danish steamer Hellig-Olav, according to Capt. J. J. Jones, of the White Star freighter, Bovic, was chased by a submarine, supposedly the U-53, about sixty miles south east of the Nantucket Lightship. The Bovic observed the submarine about two miles to the stern of the Hellig-Olav, eastward bound. The Danish vessel carries no contraband.

Contrasts in a Great City.

One of the things that make New York an interesting city is the practice of some shopkeepers of putting in their windows attractive goods with price labels. An arresting instance of this sort was seen recently in a Broadway jeweler's window. Here was a lingering ring of diamonds and an emerald, price $12,500; a marquise shaped diamond ring, $4,250; pear shaped diamond pendant, $2,250; diamond earrings, $5,000, and a gemmy of other resplendent gems to appeal to the frequenter of the Great White Way.

At the other extreme of the social scale for the buying public are the pushcarts of New York's east side, equally interesting in their way. On one of these carts in Canal street an astonishing variety of things mechanical was found, among others clocks and watches, music boxes, all kinds of tools and at least a score of second-hand cameras of various makes.—Exchange.

Setting Him Right.

"Happiness," declared the philosopher pompously, "is only the pursuit of something, not the catching of it."

"Oh, I don't know about that!" answered the plain citizen. "Have you ever chased the last car on a rainy day?"—Dallas News.

SNIPING AND RIOTING IN BAYONNE STRIKE.

Scenes of the wildest disorder mark the strike of oil workers in Bayonne, N. J. Pitched battles between the police and rioting strikers are frequent and three persons have already been killed and more than a hundred injured by bullets, it is said.

This picture shows the police arresting a rioting striker, who was clubbed into submission. The wound on his head can be plainly seen in the picture.

BARRICADE IN BAYONNE STREET.

The strike of more than 2,000 employees of the Standard Oil Company at their Bayonne, N. J., plant has developed into open warfare in the streets of the town and the militia may soon be called out to quell the disturbances. Stores and homes have been looted and several persons severely wounded in pitched battles between the police and strikers.

The picture shows police on guard and a barricade they have erected in one of the streets.

KINGSTON, N. Y., OCT. 17, 1916.

When we speak of policy in connection with the attitude of our national government upon any question we employ a word capable of meanings almost as numerous as the shifts which have marked President Wilson's weathercock state of mind upon almost every problem which has confronted his administration. Of course, no one word could equal in meanings the considerable number of incidents where the executive one track mind has availed itself of unexcelled switching facilities. Policy, according to Webster, means "prudence or wisdom in the management of public and private affairs." Another meaning given is "a wise scheme, a stratagem, a trick." Still another definition reads "administration or procedure based primarily on temporal, or material interest, rather than on higher principles; hence, more or less disparagingly, worldly wisdom; as, he allowed policy to outweigh honor." The definition unmistakably characterizes Wilson policy. The only other construction which fits the facts is the lottery game of that name by which millions of people were fleeced in the days when it was played. In the Wilson game of policy the victims exceed by many millions those deluded by "Al" Adams, "the policy king," and his predecessors. But these victims have still one more ticket. Wilson policy will be given its death blow if they mark that ticket right.

Just now we are paying from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 a month to keep the troops on the Mexican border and the President has written Governor Whitman that a withdrawal of the militia at any time since they were sent there "would in all human likelihood have been followed by fresh aggressions from Mexico upon the lives and property of the people of the United States." How much longer the thousands of men, whose earning power has been reduced to $15 per month since they were drafted into service, will continue in the South it is difficult to foretell. It is as great a problem as is our Mexican policy, or lack of policy, itself. In all likelihood the votes of the soldiers themselves will do their full share next month toward overturning the Wilson administration and substituting definiteness for indefiniteness, decision and waste of American lives and property such as have marked our meddling conduct with respect to Mexico and Mexican internal politics.

Some of the members of the favored railway brotherhoods are apprehensive that the so-called eight hour law will not work out to their advantage once it is subjected to the scrutiny of the courts. These dubious ones are engineers and conductors who are now paid on a mileage basis where approximately 100 miles is regarded as a day's work. When their train finishes its 100 mile trip their day's work is done, and, when the speed of even the more slowly moving freight trains is considered, it will be seen that some of these days of labor must be decidedly short periods. Now the new law provides that the railroads must pay a day's wage for eight hours work and it is not far from a reasonable supposition that if this requirement is exacted of the employer, the courts may find that eight hours of work must be required of the employee to entitle him to a day's pay. In investigating the law, the Railway Gazette, comes to the conclusion that if the law should be upheld, "the railroads would have to pay a day's wage for eight hours work," and then defines the provision as follows:

The law does not say that eight hours or less shall be the standard of a day's work for the purpose of reckoning wages. It says that eight hours, no more and no less, shall be the standard. It would appear, therefore, that under this provision if the railroads should pay any employee a day's wage for less than eight hours' work they would violate the law and subject themselves to its pains and penalties.

wage increase are that it should be confined to those able to demand it and to enforce their demands.

Discoveries are in themselves monuments along the march of human progress whether in the field of scientific endeavor or historical research. Antiquarians are constantly stumbling across interesting relics and in a community so thoroughly saturated with the atmosphere of colonial tradition and the swaddling clothes of liberty some of these finds assume an added impressiveness. Take for instance the discovery chronicled by a reporter for The Freeman who, in a visit to the Senate House, saw a truly astonishing souvenir, nothing less than a snuffbox with the head of Napoleon on its cover, which snuffbox was carried by its former owner through the Revolutionary War! Collectors of Napoleonicana may well look to their laurels. It is a safe assertion that in no collection of relics of the period of the illustrious general exists any medallion of that familiar profile dating back to our own revolutionary period. Time has looked after that. The discovery of the reporter is not only unique, but is an absolute anachronism. There are a lot of other words which are perhaps less euphonious, but far more expressive of the exact nature of this exhibition of modern journalism. We will be content with giving the reporter the credit for this triumph over Time. Maybe further research will bring to light a free silver medal of Bill Bryan carried as a talisman through the stormy days of the Civil War!

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"What did you do when your boat was arrested by the water commission?" "Why, I bailed her out!"—Baltimore American.

"You have made a great success of your Shakespeare." "Yes, but I think I can do better. Now I'm going to try an original play."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"He's a clever photographer." "Makes pictures of people as they look. I presume." "Cleverer than that. He makes them as they think they look."—Detroit Free Press.

"The great problem in this country," said the grimly serious citizen, "is the question of supply and demand." "That's right," replied the fan; "every year I'm scared for fear there won't be enough world series tickets to go 'round."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Exe—"So you've got a new gown after all. I thought you said you couldn't afford one this fall." Mrs. Wye—"So I did; but my husband had a dream or luck recently. He broke his leg the next day after taking out an accident policy that pays $50 a week."—Boston Transcript.

"What are you going to make of your son Charley?" I asked. "Well," replied Charley's father, "I made a doctor of him, a lawyer, a minister, a literary man. I think I'll make a laboring man of Charley. I want one of them to have a little money."—Life.

Explained at Last.

A young woman unversed in the mysteries of baseball was recently presented to a famous player. "I love the game," she cooed to him. "I love especially to watch the man at the bat. It is so cute, too, the way he keeps hitting the ground gently with the end of the bat. Why does he do that?" "Well, you see, miss," explained the player, "the worms have an annoying habit of coming up to see who's batting, and that naturally puts the batter out a bit; so he just taps them on the head gently and down they go again."—New York Times.

Surprised Himself.

During the closed season last summer, said a Wisconsin game warden, "I went up into the northern lake region to look for game violators. Tramping about the woods one day I came across a lonely log cabin. My knock at the door was answered by a hairy old man who bore all the earmarks of the type of men who live by their guns and traps."

"I asked him about the trail; then, turning as though about to leave, inquired casually: 'Aren't any deer about here, are there?'" "Dear!" he exclaimed. "Well, rather. Woods are full of them this year. Ain't hardly a week I don't get one." "That so?" I remarked, feigning only mild interest. "How about your other game. Any partridges?" "Just as plenty as deer. Venison, partridge, quail, grouse. I have one or the other of them for breakfast, dinner and supper almost every day in the week."

"I turned on him short, as he said, 'Do you know who I am?' I am on the game warden." And opening his coat I showed my star. "Well, then, looking an eye the old fellow replied: 'Glad to know you, warden. Do you know who I am? Why, I'm the biggest liar in seven states!'"

Accurate at Last.

Tom, his mother, an older sister and a baby brother, took the train for their grandfathers. One seat did not hold them all and Tom was placed in the one in front of his mother. After they were some way on their journey, a portly gentleman entered from the smoker and seated himself by Tom. He turned and, beaming on the small boy, said:

for a moment and then slowly and carefully answered: "Just a little way behind the engine."—The Christian Herald.

No Excuse Accepted.

The evangelist was entreating his hearers to flee from the wrath to come. "I warn you," he said, "there will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth." At this point an old lady in the gallery stood up. "Sir," she interrupted, "I have no teeth."

"Madam," said the evangelist sternly, "teeth will be provided."

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

TOPICS NEW YORK IS TALKING ABOUT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 17.—While President Wilson is trying to fool labor into the belief that he is a sincere advocate of the 8-hour day, his own cabinet is violating an 8-hour day law. If an 8-hour day has "the sanction of society," as Mr. Wilson declared regarding the railroad controversy, why is it not enforced in the postal service? Is the question which Thomas F. Flaherty, president of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, put to various officials and finally to the president. After expending every effort to relieve the abuse of postal clerks, which he describes as worse under the Wilson administration than ever before, President Flaherty finally wrote President Wilson describing the outrageous treatment of the postal clerks and asserting that Postmaster General Burleson and other responsible officials "are seemingly indifferent to the plight of the clerks." By his failure to answer Mr. Flaherty's letter President Wilson indicates that he is equally indifferent to the welfare of the postal clerks. "The postal department officials have placed you in the untenable position of advocating a principle in private employment—the eight-hour day—which is not in effect in government employment, solely because of a desire for a greater postal surplus," wrote Mr. Flaherty to President Wilson. Mr. Flaherty declares that "in its treatment of the aged service workers the present administration has been brutal" and says that "in an effort to belittle the worth of the mail collectors," Assistant Postmaster General Roper told the House Postoffice Committee that their work could be performed by "a blind man or a boy." The Postal Clerks' Organization is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, but that has not prevented numerous and flagrant violations of the law designed to protect them, by the Wilson administration. Mr. Flaherty also points out that Postmaster General Burleson actually asked congress to alter the eight-hour law to authorize the spreading of the day's work over twelve instead of ten hours, as the law now provides.

Was it a Gold Brick?

The contention advanced in this correspondence that in the Adamson law President Wilson handed the railway employees a gold brick has been stoutly upheld by some of your readers and by others has been seriously questioned. Striking collateral evidence of the gold brick character of the legislation is now afforded by the course of prominent railway men who are working both secretly and publicly for Mr. Wilson's election. Undersecretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission, D. M. Mariman's right hand man, now chairman of the Board of Directors of the Union Pacific, was the first to issue a public interview strongly supporting Mr. Wilson for re-election. And his example has now been followed by F. D. Underwood, President of the Erie Railway, who reviews and approves of practically every step the Wilson administration has taken. As was related at the time in these letters, when the board of railway managers met here immediately after the passage of the Adamson bill they agreed not to oppose Mr. Wilson's re-election and many of them argued that, while they had opposed the Adamson bill, on second consideration they were convinced it would prove to the advantage of the railways; because with the government fixing freight rates, hours of labor and the schedule of wages, the next logical step would be compulsory service and the roads would fare better at the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission than as the result of collective bargaining with labor unions and brotherhoods. The course of Judge Lovett and President Underwood conclusively prove the accuracy of the contentions set forth in this correspondence.

Unfair Methods.

Not for many years have such unfair methods been adopted to elect a president as those being used by the Wilson managers. For instance, states in which women vote are being flooded with circulars designed to deceive. One says, "Woodrow Wilson voted for woman suffrage in New Jersey in 1915. Charles Evans Hughes has not voted at all since 1910." Of course the Democratic managers know that it is an established precedent, violated only once in 50 years, that no supreme court justice shall vote and that Mr. Hughes became a justice in 1910, but they think they can deceive the woman voters who may not know that. Another circular is headed "On one side is misquoted Mr. Wilson's statement as follows: 'I intend to vote for woman suffrage in New Jersey because I believe that the time has come to extend that privilege and responsibility to the women of the nation.' Mr. Wilson said 'state'—not nation. On the other side, over the name of Mr. Hughes, is mere a question mark (?). Of course the Democratic managers know that Mr. Hughes was a justice of the supreme court in 1915 and that it would have been highly improper for him to express his views on woman suffrage; but they think the women voters won't know and that, being women, they can be deceived.

Just Politics.

Two spectacular utterances from the Wilson administration are confidently looked for before the election. One, it is expected, will consist of a proclamation that as a result of the Mexican conference all differences between Carranza have been adjusted and that the Wilson policy has solved the entire Mexican difficulty. The other, according to the plans of the Democratic managers, will be a fine old fashioned specimen of tail twisting, the twisted being, of course, the British lion. It will, it is promised, take the form of "a sharp note to the allies replying to their joint note regarding the inspection of American mail. Both the Mexican proclamation and the tail-twisting notes have been prepared, under the immediate supervision of Crown Prince McAdoo, according to the Washington correspondents, but it is felt that the psychological time for their publication has not arrived. If full effect on "the German vote" is to be exerted, the allies must be afforded no time to reply, and in view of the directness of Carranza, the uncertainties of his temper and his generally contemptuous attitude toward this country and its president, there must not be sufficient time for him to spill the beans after the Mexican proclamation is issued. It is explained that the necessity of preparing the two documents so far in advance grew out of the decision of the president's son-in-law to take the stump.

Mock Preparedness.

Although congress was so anxious to get work started on the new battle-ships it authorized this year that it provided that the secretary of the navy could add a bonus of 20 per cent of the cost for speed, Secretary Daniels is holding up the plans for their construction and it is predicted by naval officers that it will be far into the next administration before the keel of a single battleship is laid. Congress appropriated $6,000,000 to make certain government navy yards ready to build these ships, because of the crowded condition of the private yards, but Daniels has held this work up entirely. Not a hand has been turned toward preparing the navy yards for the big task. All of this goes to show that the Wilson administration is only for preparedness when it believes it can gain votes thereby; and proves that real preparedness and Daniels cannot exist in the same administration.

VISCOUNT UFFINGTON, 19, BRITISH LIEUTENANT, WEDS IN SECRET.

(Viscount Uffington).

London, Oct. 16.—Viscount Uffington, only child of the Earl and Countess of Craven, is today reported to have married a Miss Macdonald, the daughter of the town clerk of Invergordon, Invernesshire, Scotland, near Balmacraan, the residence of the Bradley Martins. The Countess of Craven was Miss Cornelia Bradley Martin, of New York.

The marriage of the young couple is said to have taken place in the city of October 4. Uffington, who is nineteen years old, is a lieutenant in the Third Battalion of the Hampshire Regiment. It is said the marriage was secret and has not been acknowledged by his parents.

In Selecting Your New Corsets

There Is a Question of Utmost Importance in Style and Fit

Have you given it serious thought?

If you buy a corset that is not of the type designed to meet the conditions of your figure, then there will be only discomfort and dissatisfaction in wearing it.

Either determine for yourself whether you have a tall or short slender figure, a tall or short heavy figure, a figure that is large above the waist line or one that is large below the waist line, whether you have an arched back or a short-waisted figure, or whether the proportions are regular. If you can determine this for yourself, the selection of a corset is a very simple matter. If you cannot determine this, allow us to help you arrive at a decision.

Our Expert Corsetiere

who has studied the various shaped corsets so as to be able to advise you correctly of the style best suited to your figure is at your service. Fittings and alterations free.

So—while the various style corsets are now in stock and the sizes are complete you can readily see the advantage and advisability of an immediate selection.

That is the final supreme test of the Columbia Grafonola—as of any other musical instrument. Tone is the ultimate demand.

The Columbia tone is a result—and the Columbia Grafonola embodies the causes in its mechanical and structural superiority; in the form and construction of its tone-chamber and its reproducer and tone-arm; in its silent and powerful motor; in its tone-control "leaves" and in the expert and workman-like assembling of all its parts and down to every last detail of its cabinet work.

FORD MAY PROVE A DANGEROUS WEAPON

When Driven by a Man Who Has Been Drinking—Exciting Time on Strand When Ford Crashes into Farmer's Rig.

That a Ford automobile may prove a dangerous weapon when driven by a man who has been drinking was shown again in recorder's court this morning before Recorder Lang when Joel Stewart of Saugerties was arraigned charged with reckless driving. From the story as brought out Stewart, who confessed he had been drinking, but was not drunk, drove his Ford car around into the Strand from Hasbrouck avenue on Monday evening shortly after six o'clock and crashed into the farm rig owned by William Van Wageningen of St. Remy, which was tied in front of a store. As the Ford hit the wagon the frightened horses broke loose and dashed on a gallop up the Strand and were finally caught further on up the street.

Thomas Walters, a traveling man, who was nearly hit by the Ford as it came spinning around the corner, claimed the car was being driven over 30 miles an hour but Stewart said he was only driving 6 or 7 miles an hour and that the accident was due to the wet pavement which caused his car to skid.

Immediately after the accident Deputy Sheriff Peter Hooey, who heard the crash, appeared on the scene and placed Stewart under arrest. Stewart was later taken to police headquarters and furnished a bond for his appearance in court this morning.

Mr. Van Wageningen, whose rig was damaged by the Stewart car, was also in court and Recorder Lang asked Stewart if he was willing to make good the damage done to the farm wagon. Mr. Stewart said he was and the case was held open for a short time until the damage to the wagon could be estimated by a wagon maker who placed the damage at $12. Some harness was also broken in the run-away, and altogether the damage amounted to about $15, which Mr. Stewart agreed to pay. This was satisfactory to Mr. Van Wageningen.

Recorder Lang said that settled one phase of the case, but the charge of reckless driving remained. He said he had investigated Stewart's record and found that he had never been in trouble before and bore a good reputation, and under the circumstances would sentence Stewart to 15 days in the county jail, and suspended sentence pending good behavior. He warned Stewart to be more careful when driving a car in the future.

ALBANY SPECIALIST

Will see patients in Kingston
EVERY FRIDAY
AT 340 BROADWAY

Dr. Swinburne of Albany

Specialist in chronic diseases, is a practicing physician of over 20 years' experience, is registered to practice in four different states and holds a certificate from the State University of New York to entitle him to practice medicine and surgery anywhere in the State of New York. The doctor does not believe in the use of strong acting medicines and opiates and he condemns the practice of many physicians in giving opiates and other dope medicines merely to produce temporary relief. Some people have had the impression that because Dr. Swinburne is opposed to the use of strong drugs, that he does not use medicines at all, and some have asked if his treatment were some rubbing or manipulating method.

It is here stated that Dr. Swinburne's treatment is entirely medical, and the doctor does not use any manipulation or rubbing in his practice. In fact the doctor has such great success with the medicines he prescribes that patients find permanent cures, even in cases where other medicines prescribed by other doctors, or all kinds of manipulating or electric treatments have failed.

Among the many troubles being successfully treated include Catarrhal Troubles, Stomach or Intestinal Disorders, Gall Stones, Liver or Kidney Diseases, Dropsy or Heart Affections, Shortness of Breath, Asthma, Chronic Coughs or Lung Diseases, Rheumatism or Neuritis, Paralysis, Fits, Neurasthenia or other Nerve Troubles, Eczema and blood disease, Special Weakness, Debility, Malnutrition and Private Diseases of Men and Women.

LATEST METHODS FOR KILLING MEN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Oct. 17.—Every day sees new methods of warfare develop. The French are especially active in devising refinements in man-killing. Captain Phillips Millet today described the latest tactics of the French army as follows:

"I do not think that the most remarkable feature of the present advance on the Somme, has been sufficiently noticed. I refer to the economy of men.

"All of us who spent the first twenty months at the front know that, even as late as in September, 1915, although we had many more heavy guns and shells, the connection between infantry and artillery proved very imperfect and was responsible for many losses.

"Two things must be considered separately. First of all, the preparation; secondly, the attack itself.

"The object of the preparation is to get rid of all the different obstacles which may delay the advance of the infantry. Now, these obstacles fall under three headings: There is first the barbed wire, then the defensive works (trenches and strongholds), finally the curtain fire of the enemy's artillery.

"The destruction of barbed wire is almost exclusively the task of the 75's; our gunners know exactly how many shells are required per yard of wire entanglement.

"The task is somewhat more complicated as regards the destruction of the defensive works. Experience has proved that the best way to deal with the front-line trenches, especially when they are not easy to observe, is to use exclusively against them an enormous number of trench mortars of all sizes.

"Howitzers are only used at present against the second and third lines, and all the works behind the first line trenches.

"As for the curtain fire, it can only be dealt with by firing on the enemy batteries themselves; aerial observation is required and also long-range guns.

Photographers at Front.

"The minuteness of the preparation is surely one of the most comforting features of the new war. It is generally known that, in order to make sure that all the enemy works have been properly destroyed, photographs are repeatedly taken by aeroplanes.

"All these photographs are submitted not only to the divisional staff concerned, but to all the company commanders who are to lead the attack; they are required to state whether they think that the destruction is complete, and, whenever there appears to be a doubtful point, to send out a patrol to confirm by direct inspection of the ground the results shown by the photograph. Then, and not before, the infantry attack is launched. Here begins the second stage.

"Everyone acquainted with trench warfare knows what the root difficulty was up to the present advance. It had been quite rightly assumed that the attacking troops must only advance under a protective curtain of shells. On the other hand, as all the wires are cut as soon as a battle begins, one did not see how to make sure that the moving curtain of shells would precede the attacking infantry without going too fast or— which was a more ominous danger—too slow.

"The difficulty seemed so insuperable that some of the best artillery officers suggested that the only way out was to time exactly beforehand the movements of the attacking troops with the lengthening of the range. Any advance under such a system would have had to proceed according to a sort of railway time table.

Aeroplane Information.

"Fortunately, another solution was found, since the allies have achieved the mastery of the air. The connection between the advancing infantry and the artillery is now ensured by the so-called infantry aeroplanes.

"Each French division is provided with a number of these. Their task is to follow closely the advancing line, not in order to fire on the enemy, but simply to report to the gunners and let them know exactly what is going on.

"As soon as the infantry has reached a given point, the 75's are informed that they must lengthen their range beyond it so as not to hit our own men. Information is similarly given if the infantry happens to be held up by an unexpected obstacle, or if a German counter attack is seen coming up from the rear.

"The way in which this new device has worked on the Somme is simply marvelous. It is mainly to this scientific system that the troops owe the fact that they have been able to advance under a curtain of shells which moved continuously ahead of them at a distance of 200 or 300 yards.

"The main handicap the French are still contending with arises from the fact that they have not a sufficient supply of long range guns to completely smash the most deadly German gun, the long range 210."

Street Improvements.

Superintendent Harrison of the water department has a force of men busy installing the new steam fire hydrants. Five have already been placed leaving four to be installed.

The work of laying the Murray street extension of the water main has been completed by the water department.

The board of public works has started work laying the sewer on Andrew street from Broadway to Lavan street.

Much favorable comment has been heard of the board of public works for changing the location of the arc light on the railroad bridge on Albany avenue. It has now been hung in the center of the street over the bridge. The same change in placing an arc light has been done on the Elmendorf street bridge.

LIBERTY comes only in long, silky shreds, because only long, unbroken leaf is used in making it.

That means LIBERTY is a real long cut.

And LIBERTY is absolutely free from loose, hard stems—they're picked out by hand.

That means LIBERTY is real tobacco.

LIBERTY packs right down into your pipe for a cool, slow-burning smoke. Or rolls into a wad of juicy sweetness for a husky, lasting, man-size chew.

LIBERTY is made of full-bodied, full-flavored Kentucky tobacco. And the aging we give this rich leaf—up to five years—puts a satisfying relish into LIBERTY that just suits hearty chewers and smokers from the ground up.

When a man who knows a man's tobacco gives LIBERTY the once over he sticks to it for keeps. So will you.

NO CRADLE ROCKS A BABY COUNTESS

Rearing Prussian Nobility Marked by Strict Rules Declares Countess Von
Krookow in Interesting Talk Before
Members of Wiltwyck Chapter,
D. A. R.

Never has the Chapter House of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R. looked more attractive than it did on Monday afternoon, when Chapter Day, October 16th, was celebrated with music and a remarkably interesting address given by the Countess Von Krookow. In addition to the chapter members and their friends, there were present, Mrs. Charles Benson, regent of the Hendrick Hudson Chapter, with members from that chapter; Miss Lamb, regent of the Saugerties Chapter and chapter members; and a considerable delegation from New Paltz. The assembly hall, which was artistically decorated with American flags, marigolds, golden rod and cosmos blossoms was not large enough to comfortably accommodate all of the guests. Those reading the account of the address given by the countess will find it of added interest when they know that as Mrs. Schoonmaker of Saugerties, she went abroad to study, when only a very young girl. Educated in the then empress' school for countesses, she later married the Count von Krookow, and has spent some thirty years in Germany. Living the life of a German countess, herself.

The guests were met at the hospitably open door, the day being unusually warm and delightful, by the regent, Mrs. Philip Eiding, the Countess von Krookow, and former regents, Mrs. DeWitt Roosa and Mrs. Hyman Roosa.

The program was opened with a few cordial and gracious words of welcome to all, from the regent who announced the first number to be a piano solo, "Mac Dowell's 'Pine Tree,'" played by Mrs. C. Gordon Reel, which was gracefully rendered of the little musical gem was warmly applauded. This was followed by a violin solo, "Oriental," by Cesar Cui, played by Conrad Schmid, accompanied at the piano by his sister, Miss Regina Schmid. The next musical number was a violin duet, Beethoven "Allegretto," played by the Messrs. Conrad and Alphonsus Schmid, accompanied by Miss Regina. Alphonsus Schmid then played a pleasing violin "Serenade," his sister accompanying. All of these young people have much talent, and each number was fully enjoyed and heartily enjoyed by the appreciative audience. The musical portion of the program closed with a vocal solo "A Star," by Hawley, sung by Mrs. T. S. White, who has a peculiarly pleasing and well trained soprano voice. She responded to the encore given her, with a delightful "Lullaby."

The Countess von Krookow was then introduced by the regent, and announced her own subject, "The Real Life of a Countess," calling to mind the usual impression of countesses received from novels and magazine stories, as "grown up," beautiful, exquisitely groomed, rich, having a grand house in the country and in town a palace, living a life of luxury. Usually she would have a lover, sometimes a husband, but according to the story teller, never a baby. How true the picture was, the speaker told her audience to judge from her account of life in Prussia for some thirty years. It should be said right here that the countess is a magnetic, sympathetic speaker again and again flashing wit and pleasantry into her vivid word pictures.

For only once in her life is a countess in Prussia like other human beings, that is when she is a baby, a very little baby. Yet almost from her babyhood she is considered so superior a mortal, that she soon becomes a veritable little tyrant. She is a countess. While a baby, no cradle rocks her, she is placed in a "Streckkissen," or stiff little mattress which is long enough to fold up over her feet to her chest, her outfit consisting of numberless little jackets. Over the Streckkissen are thrown lace and beribboned coverings, when the tiny countess takes the air. The wee lady is handled as little as possible, the baby wagon which holds the little mattress infant at nearly all times, being her crib when in her nursery and her perambulator when carried out of doors.

The first great event in the little life, especially if the parents are orthodox Lutherans, is her baptism, for no matter how young should she be unbaptized she would be forever damned. This important event is therefore one of much pomp and ceremony. The room in which it occurs is converted into a veritable chapel, with flowers, and candles and a cross from the nearby church. The mother, in all of her wedding finery except the myrtle wreath is present as is the father, and some six God-mothers, friends of the family. The ceremony itself is long and elaborate.

Almost the first thing that the child observes on the walls of her nursery are the pictures of the Kaiser and royal family. When six years old the education of the countess begins in earnest. A regular certified governess is secured, and if not secured the family is questioned as to the state of affairs by the police. The mother or father may not educate a little countess, only a governess having a certificate from the government for proficiency in reading, writing, arithmetic, and the sentimental history of the Hohenzollern family, wherein their perfections are extolled, and should there ever be any chance by any fault or blemish the Hohenzollern family by some strange, fascinating but wicked woman. The religious education begins at this time, too.

The speaker told of being in a family where there were three children, and of her surprise at hearing the family, when both the governess and "Candidat" or tutor, most estimable

NAVY NIGHT AT FIRST DUTCH CHURCH

Men's Association Observes Anniversary of Burning of Kingston by Reception to New Members.

Rear Admiral Francis J. Higginson, U. S. N., retired was too ill to deliver any address at the annual reception given to new members by the Men's Association of the First Dutch Church Monday night, but Navy Night was celebrated just the same. Harper Leeper and Roger H. Loughran, two of the members of the congregation, giving their experiences on the recent civilian cruise aboard the United States battleship New Jersey, and Judge Clearwater and Judge Hasbrouck, in interesting addresses, exchanging good natured felicitations on their records for the pleasure of the congregation.

Significance of the Day.

The sixteenth of October is selected annually by the Men's Association of the First Dutch Church for its reception to new members of the church, because it is the anniversary of the burning of Kingston by the British soldiers under General Vaughan on October 16, 1777, and because it was on account of the activities of the minister and members of the church that the then village of Kingston became, in the eyes of the British, a hotbed of treason which under the long-settled rules of war must be stamped out—in this case by burning.

"The United States Navy" had been selected as the theme for this year's addresses, with Admiral Higginson as the principal speaker, because of his long and distinguished service. The navy being unable to exist without water, Judge Clearwater was selected as chairman of the entertainment committee, and Judge Hasbrouck was selected by Judge Clearwater as a speaker because, as explained by Judge Hasbrouck, he possessed good sea legs which were necessary for any speaker to have after one of Judge Clearwater's introductory addresses. Messrs. Leeper and Loughran were selected because of their recent naval experiences aboard the New Jersey.

Naval Relics Displayed.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Leeper, pastor of the church, in a brief address at the close of the reception to new members, displayed an intensely interesting collection of relics presented to him by a Mr. Reed of South Acton, Mass., who had spent many years in gathering pieces of wood from all of the old ships of the American navy, and had combined them in a box which was a container for a cane made from part of the old battleship "Constitution." Mr. Reed's modesty forbade him to take credit to himself, and he had written to Dr. Leeper: "Always say that this was presented by Captain Shipley, of the Boston navy yard—it will sound better; Captain Shipley presents it to you; I only did the work."

Why Kingston "Loped" to Hurley.

Judge Clearwater, chairman of the entertainment committee, said the sixteenth of October for the First Dutch Church was as the Fourth of July to the American Republic. One hundred and thirty-nine years ago to this evening the church edifice of the congregation was in ashes and all except one of the houses in the village had been burned. The reason the congregation celebrated this date was because it was the patriotism of the people of Kingston and particularly of the First Dutch Church that Kingston was burned by the British soldiers under General Vaughan. Sardonious residents were accustomed to say: "Yes, when the British soldiers came, the people loped to Hurley." It was true the women and children loped, but the men of Kingston were fighting in the ports of the Highlands of the Hudson and at Saratoga. Had it not been for the patriotism of the people and minister of the First Dutch Church, General Vaughan would not have stopped to burn the church and village, but would have continued his way up the Hudson to effect a junction with the forces of Burgoyne at Saratoga, which if it had been successful would have changed the result of the battle, and perhaps changed the course of American history. It might be said that it was the First Dutch Church which determined the War of the Revolution. Among the relics displayed was a piece of the wagon which carried Burgoyne after his surrender from Saratoga to Kingston, from which he was later taken further southward and afterwards exchanged. It is no mean thing to live in, he said, or no mean church to which we belong, or no mean ancestors from whom we have descended.

Aboard the New Jersey.

Harper Leeper, son of the Rev. Dr. Leeper, told of his experiences aboard the battleship New Jersey on its civilian cruise during the summer. The New Jersey being under ten years old is considered a first-line battleship, and he described the construction and armament of the ship. After going aboard the "rockies" were taken below decks and given uniforms, then allowed time to stow their luggage and given cards instructing them where and when mess would be served and outlining their duties. First quarters in the morning were sounded at 7.15, when the sailors assembled on the quarter-deck, which otherwise is reserved for officers only. There the guard for the day is appointed—twelve men from each of the three divisions and ward ship. The sailors made of one strip of canvas, swung from hooks and climbing in the hammocks the utmost dexterity was necessary in order to prevent the hammock from turning over. Instruction daily was in the use of small arms, general naval instruction and the handling of twelve-inch guns. There always is work to be done, and each day decks are scrubbed white and all brasswork highly polished. At Block Island the entire crew of 1,500 went ashore, headed by the band, and sighting a large platform man danced with man to the accompaniment of the band. Afterwards they boarded trolley cars to see the sights but loaded the cars so heavily they were unable to move. Other interesting details of the trip completed the young man's narrative.

Playing Battle Games.

Roger H. Loughran, son of Dr. E. H. Loughran, who also made the cruise, related experiences of the same cruise which had attracted him in preference to the Plattsburgh training camp because there were no trenches to be dug or no long hikes to be taken. There were no cabins or bunks for the men. Hammocks were slung between decks, and when hammocks were put away, folding tables which were slung from the upper decks were lowered for mess, and the same space afterward used for instruction classes. In the open air, the ventilation of course was good. In playing war games, a ship never knew whether it had been sunk or whether it had sunk the enemy until after the games were over. Only one man—the admiral of the fleet—directing the maneuvers. If a ship taking the part of an enemy ship was sighted and by means of the range-finder the guns were directed so as to throw an effective shot before the enemyship could perform the same work, the latter officially had been sunk, but it was long after making the report to the admiral that those on board knew what had been their success. The food aboard was good, even though it consisted largely of "navy bullets," as beans were called. Those on board got up at 5 a. m., had coffee at 5.30, and scrubbed decks until 7.30 when breakfast was served. The watch is a name for duty, and the men on watch are placed in all parts of the ship. When a ship is under way there is a buoy watch, who is over-ready to throw a lifebuoy in case anyone should fall overboard; a telephone watch, watch on the bridge, in the engine room and everywhere else. While at anchor, the duties are less. A man on watch is on duty four hours and off duty eight hours, seeing the same faces at every meal and only blue water in all directions is monotonous, and he could appreciate, he said, why sailors returned from a long cruise were apt on landing to attempt to spend in a short time all their accumulated savings.

Bowing To a Despotie Will.

Judge Hasbrouck was introduced by Judge Clearwater as one of the members of the church who was a man who had achieved great distinction personally, who had been an ancestor of distinction and who had passed distinction on to others, and admirably fitted to take the place of Admiral Higginson, who was too ill to be present.

Judge Hasbrouck said he noticed that the preceding speakers had their sea legs and he supposed he had been selected for the same reason because only a man with sea legs could make an address after one of Judge Clearwater's introductions. He paid a high tribute to the ability and distinction of Admiral Higginson, but for himself said he was a conscript for the occasion. A conscript is a man who submits himself to arbitrary and despotic authority, and having served eighteen months as a law student in Judge Clearwater's authority, he had acquired the habit, which he had ever since followed, of tamely submitting himself to the arbitrary despotism of the judge. Referring to Admiral Higginson, Judge Hasbrouck jocularly said that he was a big man not because he had served in the navy in command of a battleship, beginning his career in the Civil War and continuing it down through the Spanish War, taking part in the battle of Santiago, but because on the day of his retirement he had the presence to select Kingston for his home, and to select for his future occupation the noble work of carrying on by the State Board of Charities and to devote himself to those who needed a helpful hand. Having served his country faithfully in one capacity he could not fail to serve it faithfully in another, and thereby he did not miss the great purpose of life. Men only amount to something when they cease to become self-centered and devote themselves to the service of their fellow men. It was impossible for him to fill Admiral Higginson's place and he considered it a great joke to be asked to speak on the navy above all other subjects, but it was in keeping with the principles of the law of mental philosophy. One of the first principles of mental philosophy was the association of ideas, and it was probably because of the fact that he was related through one of his grandmothers to Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry who swept the British from Lake Erie that he had been selected to speak about the navy. If this was the reason of his selection, then Judge Clearwater had indeed mastered mental philosophy.

How Law Suits Are Determined.

Judge Hasbrouck said he had been much amused by Judge Clearwater's description of how George Clinton took the whole congregation of the First Dutch Church down the river to lick that other Clinton whom he was fighting, but he was sure that some members of the congregation had remained behind and had fled to Hurley. This fact had been impressed on him in his career when he was trying a law suit in which he represented the city of Kingston as corporation counsel. The question at issue was one of negligence, but he desired to keep this question away from the jury and raised the question whether the road to Hurley was a public highway. The opposing attorney had taken advantage of this question in his address to the jury when he said: "Why, gentlemen, this has been a public highway for years; it was a public highway long before the cowardly ancestors of my learned friend fled before the British soldiers to Hurley." That speech won the case before the jury, said Judge Hasbrouck, but he appealed from the judgment and it came before Judge Clearwater, who had learned of the disparaging remarks that had been made about those cowardly ancestors and promptly put the kibosh on it. His own ancestors were French Huguenots while those of Judge Clearwater were Dutch, but in the good old days they used to play in together always.

In concluding his address, Judge

Hasbrouck said that in view of the fact that refreshments soon were to be served, the occasion reminded him of the story of a wealthy Hebrew who sent his son to Berlin to receive a musical education, and on his return hired Carnegie Hall for a concert for his son, and promised to give a large and sumptuous banquet to his friends at the Hotel Knickerbocker if the singing suited him. The first song his son sang was off the key and the second song was still further off. The old gentleman left his box and started for the Knickerbocker in order to save some money but he found some of the friends already there eating and drinking. He told them there would be no banquet and reminded them of what he had said, that if he did not like his son's singing there would not be any banquet. His friends looked at him in amazement and asked: "You didn't like him?" "O, no," said the father. "Well," said the friends, "we like him." During the evening Miss Molyneux, soprano soloist of the church, delightfully rendered several selections which were heartily enjoyed. She was accompanied by W. Whiting Frederburgh, organist and choirmaster of the church. Afterward refreshments were served.

Autumn leaves, evergreens twined about the huge columns of the chapel and American flags and the flags of the Dutch Church comprised the decorations, which were the handsomest seen in Kingston in a long time and gave the chapel the appearance of a handsome woodland scene.

The members in whose honor the reception was tendered by the Men's Association were Olga Van Slyke Owsen, Mrs. Mabel Wright Boice, Egbert Rose Boice, Albert D. Deyo, Christian W. Winne, Mrs. Sarah A. COLLEGE HEADS ON ARMY COURSES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, October 17.—Presidents of more than a dozen leading American universities met at the Army War College here today to confer with the general staff on methods of building up a great officer reserve force for use in time of national emergency.

Systematic uniform methods of instruction in army work will be established at most American schools of higher learning. The classes will be largely taught by U. S. army officers and the work will be under the supervision of the war department and the university faculties, jointly.

Those military courses will be organized in accordance with the provisions of the new army reorganization law.

The college presidents were told today that the army must maintain a corps of at least 50,000 partially trained junior officers on which to base the organization of an adequate force should the nation clash with a first class power.

As the main source of supply for these young officers, the nation must depend on institutions with approved military courses.

In addition to representatives of the schools, officials of the Military Training Camps Association of the United States also attended the conference.

GROCERY STORE FIRE.

Friedman's Grocery at Chambers and Union Streets Burned.

The grocery store of Aaron Friedman, at the corner of Chambers and East Union streets, was discovered on fire and an alarm was turned in at 1.25 o'clock this morning from box No. 49 to which the fire department responded. The building in which the store is located is owned by Mrs. P. J. Conroy. The fire evidently started in the rear of the store, and despite the efforts of the fire department the stock and fixtures were destroyed. Mr. Friedman carried $1,200 on the stock and $300 insurance on the fixtures in the Mauterstock agency. Upstairs over the store was also damaged by the fire. The origin of the fire is unknown.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS

At a regular meeting of the Democratic Club of Ulster County, called by the following members, it was resolved: that the entire party is behind the principles of Judge Samuel Seabury in the gubernatorial contest which is attested by the resolution of the Democratic Club of Ulster County, by a vote of its members:

We urge the election of President Wilson and a Democratic Congress.

We ratify the nomination of Samuel Seabury for Governor and his associates upon the Democratic ticket.

We ratify the nomination of William P. McCombs for United States Senator.

We urge their election, to the end that the Empire State may stand shoulder to shoulder with President Wilson in support of forward looking men and measures. The public interests imperatively require that they be elected.

While barren of constructive achievement, destitute of progressive legislation and devoid of new governmental activities, the Whitman administration has saddled upon the state, an increase cost of $15,000,000 a year.

We endorse the Democratic state platform, and reaffirm its declaration that "the issue is the extravagance and incompetency of the Whitman administration." The state needs an executive more than an executive budget. Economy must be restored in this state; the appropriate taxes must be reduced. This Democratic party pledges itself to do

N. Y. PHILHARMONIC HERE NOVEMBER 2

Greatest Musical Event Kingston Has Had in Twenty Years Arranged by Harry P. Dodge to be Given in High School Auditorium.

The biggest musical event in Kingston since the days when week's musical festivals were held in the old Academy of Music, now the site of the Central Fire Station on O'Reilly street, will be the appearance here on Thursday evening, November 2, of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, with soloists, under the auspices of Harry P. Dodge, this being the first of Mr. Dodge's annual series of three concerts. The concert will be given in the high school auditorium.

The New York Philharmonic Orchestra is one of the most famous musical organizations in the world and comprises a galaxy of artists whose productions have been unsurpassed. Its conductor is Josef Stransky and the famous Bohemian music leader has gained a reputation that is world-wide. People who live in large cities are inclined to think that their less fortunate brethren who live farther away do not appreciate the same things that they do, but the observations of the musicians and soloists who accompany the Philharmonic is quite the contrary and the music which makes the biggest hit in New York makes the biggest hit also in the smallest towns in which the orchestra plays.

While individuals naturally differ in their personal conception of what music is played for them according to their varying temperaments and different degrees of knowledge or interest in music, the appreciation of music as far as the united audience is concerned is universally the same. The Dodge concerts each year have been the feature of the season in Kingston but during the New York Philharmonic Orchestra here is Mr. Dodge's biggest accomplishment. To appreciate the Philharmonic Orchestra it is not necessary to have had an elaborate musical education, and it is which have been able to secure the Philharmonic have considered themselves extremely fortunate. That Kingston will welcome the revival of the highest class musical production in America is not to be doubted.

JACK DILLON DILLON TO FIGHT GIBBONS NEXT MONTH.

Mike Gibbons and Jack Dillon have agreed on terms for a ten round non-decision bout to be staged in St. Paul, Gibbons's home town, some time next month.

It is expected that the bout will furnish a line on who is to be the opponent of Les Darcy, the Australian middle weight, who is regarded as the real champion of the class in some quarters. Dillon can make 161 pounds and may even be able to get down to 158 and thus declare himself a middleweight. It is said that Dillon will see $7,000 for his end of the bout with Gibbons, while the latter will take a percentage.

Mr. Bush Was Repentant. Jason Bush, who lives on the Rosendale road, was picked up on Broadway near the armory, on Monday afternoon so drunk that he was unable to take care of himself. This morning Mr. Bush was arraigned before Recorder Lang and was very repentant. He asked to be given another chance and on his taking the pledge for three months he was discharged with a warning that if he was arrested before the pledge expired he would serve three months in jail. Mr. Bush has a steady job and said he would return to work today. He gave his age as 54 years.

He Didn't Know. One June day in 1862 near Fredericksburg, Va., General Stonewall Jackson saw one of General Hood's Texans climbing a fence to get into a cherry tree. "Where are you going?" shouted Jackson. "I don't know," replied the soldier. "To what command do you belong?" "I don't know," the Texan replied. "Well, what state are you from?" "I don't know," Jackson gave the man up, but he asked a comrade what it all meant. "Well," was the reply. "Old Stonewall and General Hood gave orders yesterday that we were not to do anything until after the next night. The soldier was left to his chum.

HOW YALE SIGNALS STARTED

Quarterback Twombly of '82 and '83 Comments on Work of Walter Camp in Alumni Weekly.

The delving into Yale football history by Walter Camp has uncovered a number of interesting features, not the least of which is the use of signals by the Eli eleven in the days of long ago. In commenting upon this work Henry B. Twombly, quarterback on the Yale teams of 1882 and 1883, writes to the Alumni Weekly on old Yale football days as follows: "Walter Camp is right in his first written list of word signals used by the Yale team in 1882, but he has apparently forgotten the signal given on the occasion of the first touchdown made by Yale against Princeton since 1877. As boys playing in the Boston streets 'cheese it' was our well-known signal to look out for 'coops.' "When we were arranging signals in the fall of 1882, I remembered well the glee with which Doc Beck, our right tackle, and I fixed it up that when the signal 'cheese it' was given, he was to drop back behind the line for a quick pass from the quarterback. After considerable play in the Princeton game at the old Polo grounds on November 30, 1882, Richards dropped back, apparently to try a drop-kick for goal. But on the signal 'cheese it' the Princeton line broke through the Yale line with great ease to block Richards' kick.

"Such, however, had been the intention on the part of the Yale line. Doc Beck dropped back of the line in exact time to get the ball, thrown over the heads of the charging Tigers, and without a Princeton man touching him, Beck rushed the ball over for a touchdown. I can see old Doc now, with his white hair standing straight up and a grin on his face, shouting, 'How do you like that, you Tigers?'"

FOLWELL A MESMERIST

Bob Folwell, coach of the University of Pennsylvania football team, when asked to tell something of his methods of handling a team and especially of teaching the forward pass replied as follows: "Get your men together. Tell them at the outset they are the best bunch of football players ever gathered together on one field. Show them how to use the forward pass. Then tell them they can work it better than any other team in the world. Keep on telling them this. The whole thing is to make your men believe they form the greatest team in the world. Keep at it long enough and they'll believe it."

VETERAN ANGLER IS WINNER

Janus Ranney of Chicago, Victorious in National Fly and Bait Casting Tournament.

At Newark, N. J., Julius M. Ranney, a Chicago veteran angler, seventy-three years old, received many congratulations for his victory in the half-ounce bait and bait casting tournament. Mr. Ranney won the championship over a number of younger competitors, casting at a target 80 feet distant.

MAY SWIM ENGLISH CHANNEL

Ambition of Charles B. Durborow, Philadelphia Bank Clerk—Two Previous Performances.

Charles B. Durborow, the Philadelphia bank clerk distance swimmer, is ambitious to swim the English channel. Only two swimmers have accomplished the feat. In 1878 Capt. W. S. Webb, after 16 attempts, swam from Dover, England, to Cape Gris Nez, France, in 22 hours and 35 minutes, while in 1911 William T. Burgess swam from Dover to Calais, France, in 21 hours and 45 minutes on his second attempt.

A Good Time?

People are always being misunderstood; especially the man whose idea of showing a friend a good time is to take him out in a racing car and hand him the scare of his life.

LITTLE PICKUPS OF SPORT

Dick Grant is coach of athletics at the University of Havana, Cuba.

Denison won the post-season series in the Western association from Tulsa.

Speaking of game losers, how about the Athletics, Milwaukee and Cincinnati?

President Lannin of the Red Sox declares no team is stronger than the umpires.

The Japanese show up well in many lines of sport, but they haven't accomplished much in boxing.

James M. Burke, the well-known Boston A. A. middle-distance runner, has retired from the elder path.

Boston sportdom is to lose another star, Patsy Sequin, the brilliant captain of last year's Arena hockey team, is the latest to desert the Hub.

Buffalo wants the 1917 National Association of Amateur Oarsmen regatta. The award will not be made until the annual meeting next March.

Thirty-seven members of the Don Rowing club of Canada, including Amateur Sculling Champion Robert Dible, have joined the Canadian troops.

A pitcher on the Oakland (Cal.) team tried to throw one of Matt's fadeaways and broke his arm. He's lucky. He might have broken the batter's head.

Ned Egan of the Muscatine (Central association) club has sold two more pitchers, Detroit getting them both. They are Ed Pinkerton and H. W. Flanagan.

Robert F. Herneck, coach of the Harvard crews, is having two new eight-oared and a pair-oared shell constructed which he will present to the crews for use in the trial work.

Bobby Jones of Atlanta, whose playing was the sensation of the recent open golf championship at the Merion club near Philadelphia, first played the game at the age of seven. He is not fifteen years old.

Freddie Welsh has nothing but praise for Benny Leonard since his last meeting with the New York star. He says he has a wholesome respect for Leonard's ability. A page from history reveals the reason. Benny once made the champion look like a novice.

NATURE'S ICY GRAVEYARD.

Wastes of Arctic Siberia.

Little does the traveler think as he drives over the dreary wastes of snow and sees no living thing save the arctic fox, the raven and the snowy owl that the ground below him is packed full of the remains of enormous animals that have perished in some mysterious manner. Such nevertheless is the extraordinary fact, states "Siberia and the Polar Sea."

The whole of northern Siberia from the Ural mountains to Bering strait, is one vast graveyard. The bones, teeth and skulls are those of elephants, rhinoceroses, buffaloes and musk oxen. They occur everywhere. They are found on the banks of the rivers in the plains, on rising ground and in frozen cliffs. On the shores of the Arctic ocean there are sloping banks of ice. These are split and furrowed in all directions with deep chasms, and as the traveler looks down into their dark depths from above he sees that the lower portions of these icy chasms are filled with fossils.

In other places on the northern coast of Siberia fronting the Arctic ocean the low cliffs that rise above the beach and are formed of earth and clay are full of the bones of elephants and rhinoceroses. In the brief summer, which hardly lasts for six weeks, portions of these earthy cliffs thaw and fall on the beach below. Then it is that the traveler who walks along the shore witnesses an astonishing spectacle. Not only does he observe icebergs stranded on the beach, but he also sees the tusks and bones of elephants (the mammoth) lying on the shore.

If he leaves the Arctic ocean behind and journeys inland the same sights constantly meet his astonished gaze. He comes, it may be, to a plain where for perhaps half a mile the whole ground seems to be formed of masses of tusks, teeth and the bones of elephants and rhinoceroses welded together in one confused mass in the frozen soil. These mighty beasts must have been destroyed in herds, but how they perished no one knows. Still more amazing is the fact that the islands in the Arctic ocean north of Siberia are equally full of the tusks and bones, and on the shores of these islands in the polar sea the tusks of elephants can be seen sticking up in the frozen sand.

Stranger still, actually the very bodies of these great elephants, with flesh and hair perfect are seen standing upright in the frozen cliffs. When the cliffs thaw the bodies of these great elephants fall to the ground and are so perfect, after being entombed for thousands of years, that the wolves eat the flesh.

There are many who maintain that a great future is before Siberia, owing to its vast mineral wealth and its coal producing power. This applies to the southern districts, but has nothing to do with the regions of awful desolation to which we have referred.

With a cargo of munitions for England, weighing 18,000,000 tons and valued at $7,000,000 the White Star liner Adriatic is today on the high seas defying the German U-boat supposed to be lurking off the Atlantic coast.

The Adriatic led a fleet of nine big British steamers all carrying large cargoes of munitions. It is supposed they are being conveyed by a fleet of British cruisers.

Notes of Baseball, Football and Other Lines of Athletics
By Telegram to The Freeman

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Charlie White today sent a broadside into the Freddie Welsh camp when the Chicagoan offered to wager the champion any part of $5,000 that he can defeat Welsh if the latter will fight twenty rounds with a referee other than Billy Howne. White claims he won the Colorado fight and with an other referee would have been given a verdict. He's ready to meet Manager Pollok to arrange terms.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—From Cleveland today came the report that Manager Lee Fohl for the Indians is to be deposed. That who will succeed him is not known, but it is known secretary Robert McRoy is on his way here to confer with President Dunn. The latter when asked about the shift said "I don't want to discuss it."

Cambridge, Mass. Oct. 17.—With Percy Haulton back on the coaching job, a crimson football team today began speedling up again. The gridiron wizard has found many talents and has ordered that they be remedied immediately. Harvard supporters now are confident that the power of the Cambridge team will make itself felt again in the football world.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 17.—Walter A. Bluff, former catcher for the New York Yankees has been signed to coach the baseball candidates for the University of Pittsburgh 1917 nine.

New York, Oct. 17.—That on-again-off-again (Harley) Weinstock-Bob Moha match is an again-may-be. The promoters today announced it would be staged here on October 31. Twice before the bout was postponed.

New York, Oct. 17.—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Dodgers today received a $5,000 bonus check from the owners. It was in appreciation for Robinson's trick in giving Brooklyn its first pennant in 16 years. The 1916 season has been a rather profitable one for "Uncle Robby." In addition to the bonus he got his regular salary, said to be in the neighborhood of $7,500 and also a split of the world series million, making about $15,500 in all.

Boston, Oct. 17.—Reports are being circulated here today that if Joe Linnaw sells his Red Sox the club president and part owner will be Bill Dwyer, who has been a manager of the active end of the game. Linnaw has lost his love for baseball. Linnaw has interested some wealthy friends who will join him in the purchase of the club, provided Linnaw will sell at a reasonable figure.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke)

New York, Oct. 17.—The dear, old public can be pushed so far—but not beyond that mark. It will stand for many things, but there are some instincts attempted by the money-mad baseball magnates that even the long suffering patient fans won't countenance.

C. Hercules Ebbels and associates have located a 100-acre tract in the world series. With the sanction of John K. Tener, league president, they sought to shake-down the folks in "the city of the unbearably dead" for all they had. The result was not at all what it had been expected.

The owner of the Dodgers placed a valuation of $5 on each of the seats in the first eight or nine rows of the lower grandstand and the same price upon the first seven rows in the upper grandstand. The fans at once balked at this bit of "high-handedness." As a result practically every seat in the upper grandstand was empty when the first game was played in Brooklyn while there were many bare patches in the $5 section in the lower tier.

Said Blow to Ebbels

And a sad, sad blow it was to Ebbels. He had figured that the folks would pay any old price asked, but his reasoning was wrong. With more than 7,000,000 inhabitants in the Greater New York district, Ebbels was able to draw a little more than 20,000 persons for his opener, although the seating capacity was something close to 25,000. About $20,000 worth of tickets were unsold. All of which goes to show that it is almost time that the baseball magnates awaken to the fact that they are running the risk of alienating the fan that can be made into 20 dollar gold pieces.

Series Wasn't Worth Price.

A world series is supposed to be worth the price of admission. But the one they staged this year wasn't. It was poorly played. It lacked much that one expects when two champion teams clash. It was dull and colorless in spots. There were flashes of brilliancy here and there—but they were few and far between. Errors were more plentiful than exceptional plays. Only one game of the entire five was a great ball game. The other four were just ordinary.

First Game Figures Surprised

The low receipts and the low attendance at the first game in Boston speaks something strange concerning the handling of tickets. There was a discrepancy somewhere. The crowd at the first struggle seemed almost as large as for the second yet officially it was found to be about 15,000 less. Efforts to run down the alleged irregularity in the sale of the ticket, has not met with any degree of success. The officials all admit that something seemed wrong but no one could say what it was.

The bleachers on the day of the first game were almost as crowded as on the second day. Yet the victim from the bleacher seat sales for the opener were said to be far under those for the second. So far and so that it looked as if about half the bleacher crowd on the first day got into the grounds without paying money at the box office.

The low receipts and the low attendance at the first game in Boston speaks something strange concerning the handling of tickets. There was a discrepancy somewhere. The crowd at the first struggle seemed almost as large as for the second yet officially it was found to be about 15,000 less. Efforts to run down the alleged irregularity in the sale of the ticket, has not met with any degree of success. The officials all admit that something seemed wrong but no one could say what it was.

THEOSOPHIST TO LECTURE IN CITY

L. W. Rogers, theosophist, author and journalist, is to give a short course of free lectures here beginning on Thursday night at 8 o'clock, discussing such themes as the purpose of life, the need of a scientific basis for religion, the origin and evolution of the soul and the relationship of the occult to the affairs of daily life. Mr. Rogers, 736 E. 14th street, author along students of psychology, will also discuss dreams, premonitions and associated phenomena. The subjects of the lectures to be given at Solter Sanitarium are "Reincarnation," "Pearls and Perennations," and "The Laws of Destiny."

The lecture course is under the auspices of the local branch of the Theosophical Society. Mr. Rogers is now on his way to a continental tour in the interest of theosophy in his capacity of National Lecturer.
